

For this lesson you will need: A pencil or pen, a ruler and some paper.

Note: if there is a word which is written in blue and underlined, it means you can click it and it will take you to a website.

L.O: Are you rich enough to share?

Can you answer this question to get your brain thinking?

Why do we share?

Do you think sharing is an important skill to have? Yes/No why?

Click here to watch 'The Story of Duni Chand' (Watch from 1 min and 46sec onwards).

You can click here to access a dictionary if there are any words you do not understand in this activity.

E.g. skill, need, want, wealth,

Think about the things that you own. Do you have or want more things than you actually need? Create a table like this. Note down your most basic needs to survive, and also the things you would just like to have. Be honest! ☺

| Needs | Wants |
|-------|-------|
| | |

Answer these key questions:

Why did Duni Chand want to be richer than he already was?

Do you think wealth alone can make you happy? What else do you need to be happy? E.g. a loving family, a safe home, what else?

What did you learn from the story of Duni Chand?

Draw a picture of yourself, showing one way in which you could help other people during this crisis the world is facing (Covid-19).